Los Angeles Wildfire Response

Responding in Times of Disaster

Repair the World

Our hearts are heavy as we witness the devastation caused by the Los Angeles wildfires. In the face of the pain, loss, and uncertainty caused by the wildfires, and as needs continue to grow, we have an opportunity—and a responsibility—to act.

In times of crisis, service is a powerful response.

In collaboration with trusted local partners, Repair the World is beginning to mobilize a Jewish volunteer response to support those impacted, guided by our values to strengthen each other, hitchazkut. We estimate these initial response efforts will cost approximately $250,000, with ongoing conversations to explore broader and longer-term efforts to meet continued needs in the months to come. Learn more about specific opportunities here.

Together, we can engage thousands of young Jews in the wildfire response to rebuild and restore. Learn more about our vision and how to join us here.

Wildfire Response Service Corps	$120,000
Wildfire Response Ambassadors	$40,000
Jewish Community Activation	$25,000
Jewish Learning Resources	$25,000
Jewish Service Programs	$40,000
Total	$250,000